ABOUT THE CONFERENCE

COLDA is a highly educational and scientific conference focused on liver disease in Africa. COLDA 2021 will be held as a virtual conference.

This being the 4th COLDA, we continue to cultivate a platform that provides a unique opportunity for clinicians, researchers, policymakers, industry representatives, and other healthcare professionals in the African region. Together with support from an international community of experts, they will exchange knowledge on the latest clinical developments and updates on ongoing and new trials related to liver disease.

We aspire to provide you with a highly scientific and educational abstract-driven conference consisting of keynote speeches, state-of-the-art lectures, oral and poster abstract presentations, and debates with ample time for discussion.

We are certain that the conference will act as a catalyst for translating science into clinical practice while promoting medical education in the field of hepatology and setting up collaborations within the African region.

Everyone will have an exceptional opportunity to share and acquire knowledge, and experience a wide spectrum of topics related to liver disease.

The conference will cover, among others:

- Introduction to Viral Hepatitis and Liver Disease
- Political Support & Public Health Involvement
- Management of Viral Hepatitis
- HCC and its Management
- Challenges of Integration of Services
- NASH/NAFLD Management in Africa
- Discussions on Region Specific Guidelines
