2nd International Symposium on Regenerative Hepatology

Organized by: EASL Regenerative Hepatology Consortium

June 20 2023, 9:00-17:00 (Central European Time)

Medical University of Vienna, Vienna, Austria

Regenerative Hepatology with small molecules, hormones and growth factors

- 9:00-9:10 – Welcome and opening of the symposium by Pedro Baptista, Etienne Sokal, Tobias Cantz and Michael Trauner
- 9:10-9:40 – From Bench to Bedside: Pharmacological MKK4 Inhibition to unlock regeneration in diseased Livers - Lars Zender, Tübingen, Germany
- 9:40-10:10 – The role of bile acids and FXR in liver regeneration – Saskia van Mil, Utrecht, The Netherlands
- 10:10-10:40 – RNA-based therapeutic strategies of the liver - Amar Deep Sharma, Hannover, Germany
- 10:40-11:00 – Discussion

11:00-11:30 Coffee break

Hepatic developmental biology, stem cells and beyond

- 11:30-12:00 – New insights into bile duct formation, Frederic Lemaigre, Brussels, Belgium
- 12:00-12:30 – The generation of liver progenitors for translational medicine, Floris Roos, Cambridge, UK
- 12:30-13:00 – Liver organoids: from basic biology to clinical applications, Patricia Ignacio, Dresden, Germany
- 13:00-13:30 – A niche map for ductular reaction-driven regeneration, Rita Manco, Brussels, Belgium

13:30-14:30 Lunch Break

Poster Session

- 14:30-15:30 – Rapid fire poster presentations (5 minutes each presenter)

Novel organoid in vitro systems for cell therapies and model diseases

- 15:30-16:00 – Engineered human hepatocyte organoids enable CRISPR-based target discovery and drug screening for steatosis, Delilah Hendriks, Utrecht, The Netherlands
- 16:00-16:30 – Hepatocyte organoids, Weng Chuan Peng, Utrecht, The Netherlands
- 16:30-17:00 – Gene editing in organoids with metabolic liver disease, Indi Joore, Utrecht, The Netherlands
- 17:00 Closure
